One Baby Octopus
Jerusalem's University
A Nick in the Bullet
Poor Papoose, Bad Ute

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.

ONCE THERE WAS a big oil trust and, in awe, people said: "It's a one thousand million dollar octopus." The government said: "We will destroy that octopus. We will not have such a gigantic organization growing up in our sweet republic; away with it."

So the government brought a lawsuit and the big trust was chopped up into many little trusts. And those that owned the little pieces found themselves about ten times richer than they were before. That's how it works when government tries to interfere with what is really the natural evolution in business.

NOW COMES a combination of the Standard Oil of Indiana, one little piece of the big "octopus," and the Doheny Oil Company, not including the California Doheny Company.

The new concern has assets of $584,000,000, and nobody knows how many billions it may be really worth in years to come.

ONE LITTLE BABY born of the thousand million dollar concern grown to $584,000,000 size and nobody gets excited. We have got used to "octopuses."

IN JERUSALEM BALFOUR has dedicated a great university near the spot where the Emperor Titus pitched his camp when he besieged and captured the ancient city. Cablegrams from Jerusalem supply complete details, and how that cabling would amaze the old leader, Moses.

He spent forty years wandering through Egypt into the Promised Land. Flying machines make the trip regularly now in about an hour. A cable message telling about Jerusalem's new university might go from old university might go from old Jerusalem to New York, with a Jewish population ten times greater than Jerusalem ever had, in less than one-tenth of a second. Such is progress.

Many in Jerusalem seeing this great university will remember the line in the Talmud: "Jerusalem was destroyed because the salem was destroyed because the schools were neglected." Apparently the schools are not to be neglected henceforth.

LITTLE THINGS MAKE a great difference, as children are taught in the old lines about "For lack of a nail the shoe was lost," telling how, at last, the kingdom was lost.

The well-known criminal Chapman, on trial for his life, says he didn't shoot Policeman Skelly, and has, what seems, a good alibi. But his own pistol, alleged to have shot the policeman, may hang Chapman.

Inside the barrel of the pistol there was a little roughness that made a nick in each bullet as it went out. Just such a nick was found on the bullet that killed Skelly.

YOU FEEL SAD ABOUT the poor Red Man, deprived of his lands, and driven ever farther and farther away from the good real estate corners.

Then from Cortez, Cal., comes a reminder that the noble Red Man was not all that he should have been.

Locked up in Cortez are an aged medicine man of the Ute tribe and his son-in-law. Pale face usurpers accuse them of burying a little papoose alive, with its dead mother, in accordance with ancient custom. Many old tribes, including some white tribes, once did such shocking things. Whites don't do it any more.

ONE MEXICAN GENTLEMAN in the same prison learned, to his sorrow, that insulting a Ute medicine man, even one very old, is dangerous. The Mexican taunted the medicine man. The latter tore a leg off a heavy chair and killed the Mexican with it.

HAS CLOT IN BRAIN; ONE ARM AFFECTED; DOCTORS ALARMED

Washington, April 3.—Secretary John W. Weeks of the War Department is ill with thrombosis, an obstruction of the blood circulation by a clot, which in this case apparently has lodged in the brain.

A stoppage of any proportions there would have immediate fatal results and even in a milder form might cause paralysis.

The secretary has been confined to his home for several days, but there had been no intimation that he was seriously ill until his physicians today announced the cause.

Dr. R. L. Hardin issued a statement today saying that the secretary on the morning of April 1 had a thrombosis of one of the small branches of the middle cerebral artery which had produced weakness

VOIDS VERDICT FOR MRS. DENNISTOUN

London, April 3 (I.N.S.)—In the face of the jury's verdict that Colonel Ian Denniston had entered into an agreement to support his divorced wife, Justice McCardie today handed down his decision that the agreement was void and unenforceable.

The judge's finding sets aside the jury's verdict for Mrs. Denniston in the General case.

A stay of execution was granted by the Justice in order to permit either Denniston or his wife to enter an appeal.

McCardie held that Colonel Denniston had not acted oppressively

QUASH DOHENY AND FALL INDICTMENTS

Washington, April 3.—Indictments returned by a Grand Jury here against Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior; Edward L. Doheny and Edward L. Doheny, Jr., were quashed today by Chief Justice McCoy in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

The court's action was based on the ground that Oliver E. Hagen, special assistant to the Attorney-General, had been present during the consideration of the cases by the Grand Jury.

The indictments had to do with the revelations in the Senate oil inquiry, but constituted a separate proceeding from the civil suit recently brought to trial in Cheyenne. The latter related to Teapot Dome. The Fall-Doheny cases relate to the California oil reserves.

They charged criminal conspiracy in connection with the oil leasing program. Should the higher courts uphold the ruling today and no new indictments be returned, it would mean the collapse of the government's criminal proceedings in this case.

2,200 PAINTERS TO VOTE ON WAGE OFFER

The 2,200 union painters employed in the building trades in Boston have suddenly become the centre of the controversy between the labor unions and builders over the question of wage increases.

A strike of the 25,000 building trades employes is believed to hinge on the action the painters take when they record their vote on the question of striking.

Several hundred journeyman plumbers, electricians and lathers are already out on strike, but the majority of the union members are at work, despite the fact that their wage agreements with the contractors expired on April 1.

WITNESSES IN CHAPMAN DRAMA

3 ESCAPE DEATH IN HARBOR CRASH

Three fishermen aboard the fishing launch CH230 narrowly escaped being crushed to death and then escaped drowning today when their small craft was squeezed over between the steam trawler Comber and the Boston Fish Pier.

Frank Tombello of No. 22 Moon street, North End, and Luciano and Gois Rustico, brothers, of No. 23 Lewis street, North End, were just crawling out of their bunks when the big trawler manoeuvering for a berth, crushed the fishing launch.

The tiny craft was split the entire length of the keel and went down immediately. Tombello and the Rustico brothers found themselves floundering in the cold water. They grasped a rope trailing down from the fishing schooner, Gertrude DeCosta, and pulled themselves aboard that schooner.

On the crushed launch were 6,000 pounds of fish. The boat was owned by Baptists Asaro and was valued at $8,000.

The trawler Comber carried 60,000 pounds of fish in on her trip from the banks.

The trawler is of steel, 146 feet long and of 300 gross tons. The launch was thirty-nine feet. Both The "Comber" is owned by the Bay State Fisheries Company. Her captain, Jethro Nickerson, was warping her into a narrow berth when her bow first squeezed the launch against the dock and then drove the small boat's bow into the De Costa.

INJUNCTION BLOCKS SALE OF SHIPPING

Washington, April 3.—A temporary injunction blocking sale of the Shipping Board's California-Orient line was issued today by Justice Hitz of the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The injunction was issued on petition of the Pacific Mail Company, which now operates the line, and which was a unsuccessful bidder for its purchase against the Dollar interests. The Pacific Mail Company contended the board's decision to sell the five vessels to the Dollar Company was illegal for many reasons.

GIRL SLAYER GETTING "KICK" OUT OF TRIAL

San Francisco, April 13 (I.N.S.)—The mental status of Dorothy Ellington probably will be determined this week.

Speeding her sanity trial, her counsel planned to finish their case today.

Summaries of the evidence so far indicates that pre-natal influences of a mentally disturbed mother and an alcoholic father predisposed the sixteen-year-old girl to insanity.

Dorothy passed yesterday's session without fainting and showed animated interest in all the proceedings.

"I'm getting a kick out of this," she remarked.

NURSE ENDS $150,000 SUIT AGAINST MILLIONAIRE

New York, April 3.—The breach of promise suit brought by Miss Florence Reddington, professional nurse, asking damages of $150,000 from Colonel Isaac M. Ullman, corset manufacturer and Republican leader of New Haven, Conn., was discontinued in the Supreme Court today.

CHAPMAN'S COUNSEL LOSES IN PLEA FOR MISTRIAL OF CASE

By BERT FORD

Hartford, Conn., April 3.—The jury which, for nine days, has been listening to evidence at the trial of Gerald Chapman, accused of killing a policeman, retired with the case at 12:59 p.m. today.

Justice Newell Jennings started his charge in Superior Court at 12:40 o'clock and finished within forty minutes.

When State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn finished summing up at 11:45, Attorney Nathan Freedman, junior counsel for Chapman, made a motion, in the absence of the jurors, that the case be taken from the jury because of objectionable statements made by the prosecuting attorney. "We base our motion," said Attorney Freedman, "on the allusion to the President of the United States when the State's Attorney declared he accused and his associates planned to establish headquarters in a town ten miles from the home of our President.

"We also object to the State's Attorney's charge that the accused pillaged, and murdered, as well down the country' that characterization of the defendant as a 'murderer, robber, bandit and bilager' and the assertion that Chapman owned exhibits that the evidence did not prove."

The motion was denied.

In his closing plea for Chapman, Judge Grochi said:

"Let him live to repent. Don't let the pleas of the State attorney that this man may again escape from Atlanta, may again be at large, may take your life or may go out and kill another policeman unduly influence you."

For full details of the Chapman trial see Page 4. Watch the Boston Evening American for first news of the verdict in this dramatic murder case.

AGED R. I. MAN KILLS WIFE AND HIMSELF

Bristol, R. I., April 3.—Charles H. Smith, a storekeeper, today shot and killed his wife, Harriett, at their home here and then turned the pistol on himself. The aged couple were found dead in a bed by a daughter who came in answer to Smith's telephone message that his wife was ill. The man had been despondent over business matters, neighbors said.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Kenyon of Warren, a daughter, found the Smith home locked when she arrived in response to the telephone message. When the door was forced the couple were found lying side by side, each with a bullet wound through the right ear. A large calibre pistol lay on the floor beside the bed.

Smith, who was 69 years old, had recently opened a small store near his home, neighbors said, and it was said that he had been depressed because of his lack of success.

GIRL SAVES SEVEN AT FIRE IN NEWTON

Ann Felton, thirteen-year-old daughter of Herbert L. Felton of No. 519 Chestnut street, West Newton, millionaire distiller of Felton's Rum, saved the lives of seven persons early today when fire broke out in the twenty-room Felton home.

Ann, awakened by smoke, aroused her parents and her seventeen-year-old brother Frederick, asleep in the south wing of the house on the second floor.

The family went through windows over the sun porch on the first floor, escape being blocked by way of the stairways, which was a mass of flames.

Mr. Felton telephone for the fire department, and then aroused three maids sleeping in the north wing on the second floor. The maids were unable to leave their part of the house because of the flames and the fact that the rear doors were locked.

When the firemen arrived they

PARLEY TO END BUILDING STRIKE

At the suggestion of Acting Mayor James T. Moriarty, there will be a conference of building trade mechanics and their employers at the City Club tomorrow to discuss the building strike. Moriarty, himself high in labor union circles, would not discuss the situation this afternoon. It is known that it was at his invitation that the warring factions agreed to come together and try to compose their differences.

HUB BUILDING STRIKE NOW HANGS ON ACTION OF PAINTERS

Necessaries of Life will meet this afternoon to consider the complaint of the master builders against the building trades on strike.

Eugene C. Hultman, chairman, in calling the meeting, said there was no precedent to follow, as no such situation has arisen since the commission was constituted.

The builders allege that the striking plumbers, lathers and electricians are helping to boost rates.

The carpenters have already accepted the wage terms of the contractors for a period of three years. The bricklayers have done the same thing. The sheet metal workers are seriously considering signing the three-year wage scale offered by the employers.

Half a dozen other trades are waiting. Their action will in all probability depend upon the action taken by the painters.

The members of the laborers' union frankly admit that should the painters vote to strike for higher pay they will meet next Wednesday and take a similar vote. A strike of the laborers, it is conceded, would in all likelihood precipitate a general strike, for the allied unions have taken the stand that a general strike of all workers would be justifiable in event strike-breakers are employed to take the places of any union men who go out.

The vote of the painters will be polled tomorrow and the result will be known by tomorrow night. Union leaders identified with the unions that have already gone on strike are working among the painters, urging them to vote solidly for the three-year wage scale and to join the strikers if this increase is refused.

The painters now receive $1.10 an hour. Their new demands call for $1.25 an hour.

Although a majority of the employing contractors have yet to sign, it is saying that strikes of the plumbers, lathers, electricians and gas fitters, at the present stage of the building program, have done little to interrupt work in progress, there is quite a general realization by both employers and employes that the laborers hold the "key position" in so far as contemplated building is concerned, since work on new projects is now virtually at the excavation stage.

UP TO UNION MEMBERS.

The governing board of the employers' association, at its meeting in the City Club, ruled that all contracts sublet must be awarded to the association. This action, according to Secretary John F. Walsh of sub-contractors who are members of the association, is to head off propaganda to the effect that increased wages are being paid journeymen of this or that craft employed directly by the sub-contractor.

Although representatives of the sheet metal workers and the wage conference committee of the employers' organization met again yesterday, no agreement was signed, pending further conferences.

The usual conflicting statements were made today by the strikers and the spokesmen of the United Building Trades Employers' Association.

"Even if the laborers, 5,000 of them, should strike, the situation would not be serious," said John F. Walsh, secretary of the Employers' Association.

"Employment agencies could take care of us. Some of them offered to do it today."

"A strike of laborers would give them something to worry about," said Dan J. Sullivan, business agent of the Laborers' District Council. "It would mean that craftsmen would quit jobs where non-union labor was employed."

Both Sides Confident

Fairmont, W. Va., April 3.—The third day of the strike called in the northern West Virginia non-union coal mines found operators and United Mine Workers' officials satisfied with the situation.

rescued the Felton family, carrying them down ladders, and Patrolmen Charlton and Donahue, rushed through the hall to the rear, opened the back door and released the three maids and a fox terrier, Pete.

The home, one of the show places in Newton, was virtually destroyed.

The fire started in the laundry in the basement of the building. An electric iron, left with the current turned on, set fire to the woodwork and when the fire was discovered by a passerby the entire first floor was ablaze.

The firemen, who turned in a second alarm, calling out all the apparatus in Newton, fought the blaze for more than two hours before it was finally subdued.

and therefore should not be held for the costs upon the claim for breach of contract which his divorced wife brought against him.

The jury had awarded Mrs. Dennistoun, who divorced Dennistoun prior to his marriage to Lady Carnarvon, $25,000 damages and $6,000 debt claims after a trial which electrified London with its testimony of intrigue in the upper strata of social London and British army life.

Before handing down his reserved decision today Justice McCardie offered a defence of England's social life.

"I agree with Justice Shearman that cases like this do not represent the general life of the well to do of England," he said, referring to the judge's comment when Mrs. Muriel Waterhouse secured a $50,000 judgment against Captain Sir David Wilson-Baker and Lady Wilson Barker.

"These cases give a wholly false impression of English family and social life," he added.

Mrs. Dennistoun will be bankrupt if she has to pay a share of the costs of the trial, her lawyer told the court. It was estimated that total costs would approximate $250,000, of which Mrs. Dennistoun, under the court's decision, must pay half.

BAKER REJECTS OUTSIDE AID FOR P. O. MEN

Postmaster Roland M. Baker has had so many calls from persons interested in promotions for postal employes and to permanent employment of persons on the substitute list, that he has issued a warning that he will receive no further recommendations from anyone except the supervisor under whom the petitioning employe is working.

He also warned employes not to seek outside influence to aid promotions.

The recent increases in salaries is believed to be the reason for the sudden activities of postal employes for promotion and transfer from the substitute list to permanent employment.

EDITH GOULD SAYS FAMILY SWAYED BY GRANDMOTHER

TOOK PROMINENT PART IN FAMILY COUNCILS

By EDITH GOULD WAINWRIGHT.

Chapter XI.

THUS far I have paid scant attention to my grandmother, Mrs. Kingdon, whose kindly exercised power in the family entitles her to a chapter of her own.

First of all, my mother, up to the day that Mrs. Kingdon died in June, 1911, was at all times the dutiful daughter, turning to her mother for advice and practicing the precepts that she had learned at her knee. The affection between these two was beautiful and inspiring, yet it was easily understood because of the gentleness and loveliness of both of their characters.

Next to his wife and children, my father, whose own parents had died when he was a very young man, adored his mother-in-law. They spent many hours together, many giving over evening after evening playing cribbage, a game that he detested, with her because she enjoyed it so much. Another duty that my father imposed upon himself was the reading of the newspapers to Mrs. Kingdon when, in her later years, her eyes grew weaker.

Fond of Grandsons

Grandmamma was of English stock that had settled in Canada. She never had a son of her own and of three daughters two died in childhood. In my father she found a son entirely to her liking. But she did not fail to scatter her

Girl Sells Dad's Furniture for Movie Money

Bogota, N. J., April 3.—There are but few pieces of furniture left in the home of Charles F. Helder today, because his twelve-year-old adopted daughter sold most of the household effects so she could have movie money, according to Chief of Police of Police Winters.

Helder is employed in New York, and since the death of his wife, some time ago, the adopted daughter had things pretty much to herself.

Helder began to miss things. Chairs, bedding and other articles vanished. He sought the police, they questioned the girl, who denied everything at first, but later implicated two other children. These were questioned and the story came out.

PASQUALE'S CAREER IS CLOSED

Had Been Acclaimed in Principal Cities of America and Europe

Mme. Bernice de Pasquale, a Boston woman of unusual attainments, a soprano of unusual range and sweetness, and the first American woman elected to the Accademia Filarmonica of Rome, died today at Omaha.

She was born in Hull in 1872, the daughter of Captain and Mrs. William Jones.

Her mother and a brother live in Boston. She has scores of friends here, and thousands of admirers.

Mme. de Pasquale did not assume the name by which she was known, but assumed it by marriage to an Italian singer.

Her voice, soft and rich, she became a favorite with royalty. Her first instruction was at the New York Conservatory of Music. At sixteen she became an instructor in the same institution. In 1902 she married Signor de Pasquale, a famous tenor of his day. And a few years later she appeared in opera in London and favorably "stirred 'em away" Paris, London, she went to Berlin and finally returned home via St. Petersburg, Paris and Milan.

In Rome she was a sensation. Overcome and hoarse, she continued her musical triumphs, starred with the Metropolitan Opera Company, and sang with distinction in foreign capitals.

MILES CHARGES WIFE WITH DECEIT

B. U. Student Seeks Annulment After Expose of Mate's Marriages

Dorothy Houghton Miles, Back Bay beauty whose astonishing marital affairs were revealed after she and her student husband, Frederick Miles, Jr., Boston University senior, were found in their apartment unconscious from veronal poisoning, will fight to prevent her student husband from having their marriage annulled.

Although, according to the husband's petition, his wife was married on five previous occasions, although, he charges, she represented herself as unmarried when he led her to the altar, the young woman, through her attorney, has announced that she will appear in court opposed to her husband's motion.

Gross deceit is the charge upon which the law student bases his plea for annulment. He claims his wife told him, before their marriage, that she was twenty-six years old and never had been married. She student claims that in reality she is thirty-five years old, had been married five times previously, and had not always bothered about divorcing one husband before taking another.

The action has been filed in the Suffolk Superior Court and will come up for disposition at an early date.

COUNSEL BEGS CHANCE FOR CHAPMAN TO "LIVE AND REPENT

STATE FLAYS SUPER-BANDIT AS 'PILLAGING KILLER'

Hartford, Ct., April 3.—That Walter E. Shean of Springfield had been identified by the dying policeman, Skelly, as his slayer and that Shean's "millionaire father" had spent $200,000 to keep his boy out of prison in a series of scrapes were claims made by Judge Gross, senior counsel for Gerald Chapman, bandit prince, in the closing period of his argument at the Skelly murder trial today.

"Skelly said this rascal Shean," this lobbygow Shean, was the man who shot him," shouted Gross. "True, Skelly may have been mistaken. I don't say he was not, but I do refute the insinuation that Skelly was almost unconscious, because he recognized Sergeant McCue and called him 'Jim,' and answered 'He done it.'

PLEADS FOR PRISONER.

"When McCue asked Skelly what he meant by 'done it,' Skelly replied 'He is the man who shot me.'

"I feel sorry for Shean's old father and for his burden and his love for this son of his—this son on whom he has spent more than $200,000 because of his scrapes.

"Gentlemen, that gun was not used in the killing of Policeman Skelly. You are the two noble citizens of your city who, in spirit of fair play, reading in the newspapers that a wrong had been done by the gun experts for the State, volunteered to come here to help Chapman, the crook, because the accused told you he was a crook.

"But these men waived, in a spirit of fair play, to tell you the truth even to benefit a crook, because they, as the upright citizens they are, realized that even the life of a crook must be protected the same as that of any other man until proven guilty.

"These volunteer experts for the defence, or one of them, told you of the extra scratch on the death bullet, showing that it could not have come from Chapman's gun, but the State experts did not tell you about that important detail, important to the accused.

CALLS SHEAN "PIKER."

"I only know, gentlemen, that the State would have you believe their identifying witnesses only are to be believed. But I am willing to stake just two of our witnesses against all of those of the prosecution—Johnson, the hoofer, who was in the alleyway and saw the burglars twice and could not identify Chapman, and Miss Larsen, the saleslady, who twice saw the man tampering with the store lock, but could not identify Chapman.

"Chapman, the man who figured in the mail robbery in New York, would not be apt to take a joker and walking like Shean with him if he went on such a job.

"Gentlemen of the jury, whoever has engineered this case prodded witnesses and had them in court on every possible occasion to size up Chapman. Why?

"Because they weren't sure of their man. They feared they had the wrong man. So they didn't give Chapman a fair or decent line-up.

"In closing, let me remind you that if you acquit Chapman he will have to die in an Atlanta dungeon, anyway, because there is that twenty-to-one unexpired term confronting him. He will die in a cell. I am satisfied of that. He is not a strong man. He won't live many years anyway.

WILL END DAYS IN CELL.

"He cannot escape from Atlanta again. They will see to that down there, gentlemen. Gentlemen of the jury, let Gerald Chapman live to repent. That will be Chapman's best lesson, his best punishment. Let him live to repent."

State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn replied with such terror to thrusts made by Judge Gross, impugning the prosecution's motives, that his voice broke in bridled anger.

"This gentleman from New York, who is amazingly conversant with the terms of the underworld, has assailed my motives in prosecuting this case," he began. "I have appeared in this court for years doing my utmost to protect life and property in Hartford County and for the first time in my life this gentleman from New York has questioned my motive.

"No honey words of his can gloss over or cover the perfidy of his thoughts.

"Gentlemen, this man's closing words show that the best they hope for is a disagreement. He asks that you let him live to repent in Atlanta. Yes, to escape again after a year to continue his pillage and murder, or, perhaps, to direct from his cell his pal 'Dutch' Anderson!

"Officer Skelly's death delivered into the hands of the law this pitiless fiend, this bandit, and murderer. This man who tried with his mob to get something on Walter Shean, the son of a wealthy man, who they thought they could use. Shean may be all that the defense claimed him, but he is not a burglar or murderer.

SHEAN TOLD THE TRUTH.

"Seeing the crime at New Britain, Shean abandoned it. He helped the State. He told us Waldo Miller shot Skelly and said he thought Miller was Chapman and he drew a sketch of the accused which was a remarkable likeness. Shean told the truth and tried to do his duty and make amends.

"This defendant here motored and danced and revelled in our very community. This outlaw with his guns, his stolen car and his dynamite, was in our very midst. Think of it, gentlemen. It is enough to make your blood run cold.

"And he and his pal, Dutch Anderson, had planned to make headquarters in a town within ten miles of the home of our President."

Attorney Arthur Freedman asked, at the close of the argument to have struck from the records State's Attorney Alcorn's allusion to the President of the United States and chief-executive of Chapman as a "pillferer and murderer."

The motion was overruled by Judge Jennings.

ARSENAL IN COURT.

There was the clutter of steel as State Detective Hickey, who harvested most of the evidence for the Chapman murder case, arranged the big assortment of state exhibits for the last time today.

He heaped them in the bar enclosure as near the jury stall as possible, the rifles, the sawed-off shotgun, the pistols, burglar's tools, detector, drill, thimbles, slodge hammer, the bar of .38 and .45 calibre cartridges, the traveling bags and suit cases and the rest of the grim paraphernalia of modern crime, enough to stock a small shop.

Allen and Trumbull streets were swarmed today as were the corridors and the courtroom. Hartford County and all Connecticut is "Chapmanized."

Public sympathy for the bandit prince has undeniably increased since Walter E. Shean of Springfield, confessed accomplice and chief accuser of Chapman told his story on the witness stand this week.

This feeling of sympathy and doubt seemed more evident today following Chapman's baring of his life to the jury yesterday.

The feature writer for one of New York's tabloids will long remember the Chapman trial because he had to report it, a major case, from the outside looking in. And all because

Copy Boys Envy of Hartford 'Kids' at Trial

Hartford, Ct., April 1.—The five messenger boys who rush newspaper copy for the army of correspondents and special writers at the Chapman trial are the envy of hundreds of boys and adults in this city. They get by the crowds, almost brush elbows with the notorious prisoner daily and have heard much of the absorbing testimony.

Chapman's 'Nerviest Escape' Pure Myth

The Boston Evening American has succeeded in tracing Chapman's life history from the time of his birth to the present day. This story has been prepared and will be presented in daily installments in this paper.

The story of Chapman's life is of absorbing interest. It contains many thrills, but it also contains a powerful sermon that the average boy or young man cannot well miss.

Here is the fourth installment of the story of Chapman's life. Follow the story daily in the Boston Evening American.

Sitting like a half pint Sphinx in the grim old courtroom at Hartford, Gerald Chapman must smile to himself as he reflects upon the origin of his reputation as a jail-jumper extraordinary.

Because the most spectacular escape ever accredited to him, Chapman never made.

That wild flight along the coping of the old postoffice in lower Manhattan, of which so much has been made by writers of semi-fiction, never was undertaken.

"Chapple," with all his courage and all his brains, could not escape from the ring of bluecoats and Federal men that night in 1922.

It was a stage-managed affair, put over by some of the smartest men in the New York police department and some of the ablest inspectors in the postoffice service.

And the purpose of it was to force Charley Loerber, burglar, fumbler and Chapman's accomplice in the historic Leonard street mail robbery, to confess.

Which is one way of connecting this article with the one just preceding—that which left Chapman, Charley Loerber, Journeyman criminal, and "Dutch" Anderson, Chapman's teacher in crime, counting over the profits of the $2,460,000 Leonard street robbery in a shed on an abandoned Long Island farm.

LOERBER WAS ARMED.

There are other ways. The orthodox way would be to recount the extraordinary cleverness of young Gordon McCarthy, the postoffice investigator who achieved the arrest of the Big Three in the robbery plot.

Or to dilate upon the fast and furious life led by Chapman and Anderson in the heart of New York while the minions of the government combed the country for them.

And it was a fast life that they lived, before Gordon McCarthy crowded them down, through a "mole" that Chapman loved.

She was not the grand passion of his life, it may be said in passing. And she was not his wife. Nor the mother of that mythical child that has often been mentioned in connection with his life.

On that night in 1922, in the old downtown postoffice, however, these days of rapid living were in the long run and far away for Gerald Chapman and Charley Loerber.

They were up against the real thing in the way of a Third Degree, and they knew the reason why.

As usually happens in real life, and almost never on the stage, it was because they were guilty and trapped to some clean.

Loerber was in one room, and Chapman was in another. Neither would talk. Chapman, because he is a master criminal, in jail or at large. Loerber, because he was afraid of Chapman, and feared to tell the truth.

THE THEATRICAL ESCAPE.

Then a seasoned old grill master of the New York police department had an idea, and he outlined it to his fellows.

Chapman was slapped, cuffed, pinched until he cried out in pain, and then he was rushed away through the corridors to a little anteroom, and left in charge of many officers.

As he departed, one of the New York cops on duty cried out, in simulated anguish, "Oh, God; I'm dying."

A few minutes later the police and post-office inspectors rushed into Loerber's room and told him that Chapman had been killed trying to escape. He had been shot, and fallen off the coping.

"You're a dirty crook, too," shouted an intimidating sergeant. "You're going to try to beat the law, too, eh."

LOERBER'S CONFESSION.

And he pointed a pistol at the third button in Loerber's coat, causing that unimaginative and not too courageous young man to do everything but swoon.

That is the history of the Loerber confession, for the strength of which Chapman was sentenced to 25 years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

That is the true story of the first "escape" of Gerald Chapman from the forces of the law.

That is the origin of his reputation as a jail breaker, although he justified that reputation to the hilt he owns two suits, or changed one, if he owns more.

Said correspondent was unlucky enough to resemble a chap ejected from the courtroom just week for talking back to an overworked deputy. The ejected citizen sported a blue suit.

Last week the tabloid representative wore a gray suit, but returned from the "big town" on Monday, after the week-end, with a blue suit and the shift was fatal. It made him look like the ejected man's twin.

There was more debate. The deputy said, "You're him. I know you. You had a blue suit and was sitting on a waste basket. Now git."

Recourses to the sheriff and court was of no avail. And since then his associates have been feeding him with his facts at the telegraph office.

FORD PLANT TO MAKE MOTORS FOR PLANES

Not Considering Manufacturing Entire Craft; Interested in Stout Concern

Detroit, April 3.—The Stout All Metal Airplane Company of Detroit is an independent concern not directly connected with the Ford Motor Company or its allied industrials, Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, recently explained his connection with the Stout organization by saying that the Ford company is not considering the manufacture of complete planes, but is interested financially in the Stout company.

"We are willing that the Ford name be used in this company," Mr. Ford said, "because we believe that William D. Stout, its president, has an exceptionally good plane. The five or six planes that will be fabricated this year will be sold easily, we believe.

"While it is not the purpose of the Ford Motor Company to enter the manufacturing field in aviation, we probably will find our place in the manufacture of airplane motors. The Liberty motor soon will be out of date, and we do not believe that manufacturers will make any more of them."

LENOX ESTATE IS SOLD FOR $25,000

Lenox, April 3.—One of the most sensational drops in real estate values in the history of this town was recorded when Howard Cole of New York and Palm Beach, bought Blantyre," the 250-acre estate of Mrs. Louise Patterson, for $25,000.

The property was assessed last year for $160,000. In 1920, Mrs. Patterson refused an offer of $250,000 for the estate. She was said to have been holding out for $250,000, the value placed on it by the late Robert W. Paterson, wealthy art connoisseur of New York.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS CONFER ON NARCOTICS

A five-hour conference which, it is said, will have an important bearing on the issuance of search warrants in liquor cases in this State was held at the Federal Building when U. S. District Judges Morton and Brewster, U. S. Attorney Williams and his liquor inspectors Elihu D. Stone and Bennett Sanderson and the eleven United States commissioners throughout the District of Massachusetts, in attendance.

DUNCAN SISTERS' MAID JAILED FOR LARCENY

New York, April 3.—Miss Julia Connelly, forty years old, of No. 311 West Twenty-second street, former maid to the Duncan sisters, musical comedy entertainers, was sentenced to fifty-nine days in county jail on a charge of grand larceny, by Judge Stephen Holden in White Plains Court. She pleaded guilty to the theft of clothing, jewelry and silverware to the value of $2,000. Of the amount stolen $2,500 was reported recovered in Miss Connelly's apartment.

PUBLIC FUNDS BILL PASSES MAINE SENATE

Augusta, Me., April 3.—The resolution proposing a constitutional amendment which would prohibit the use of public funds for private institutions, was finally passed by the Senate, twenty to seven, in concurrence with the House.

This resolution introduced by Senator Benedict P. Maher of Augusta, is similar to the Massachusetts amendment with some minor changes adopting it to conditions in Maine. It will be voted upon at the next biennial election in September, 1926, and if ratified, become effective on January 1, 1927.

'JOHN D.' HAPPY AT GRANDSON'S MILL JOB

Writes Letter to Fowler McCormick Urging Him to Stick to Job

Milwaukee, April 3.—Fowler McCormick's entering his father's employ in the lowest position and without asking quarter because of his wealth and position today elicited the praise of his grandfather, John D. Rockefeller.

The son of Harold F. McCormick, harvester magnate, and his former wife, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, received the letter, postmarked Palm Beach, at his boarding house, No. 229 South Pierce street, with a dozen of "mash notes," as a result of the publicity given his labor adventure.

Written in the firm hand of the eighty-four-year-old oil magnate, the letter read:

"My Dear Grandson:

"I am very pleased in the manner in which you have chosen to learn the harvester business by starting at the bottom. By doing this, you will glean the knowledge first hand that will greatly benefit you in later years. I extend my most hearty approval of your efforts.

"Your grandfather,

"JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER."

The letter pleased Fowler more than his change of jobs. After a month of back-breaking toil in the casting plant, he was transferred to the sorting department.

"The only difference in the work is that castings are several pounds lighter than the pig iron," young McCormick declared.

"The worst job I have, though, is reading the mail that has been flooding me since it became known that I was up here. I need a secretary with the heart of a whipping boss to answer them."

Summer White House Phones Ordered

Telephone officials in Lynn have received instructions to begin at once the installation of special telephone lines to White Court, in Nahant, in preparation for the President's vacation. A 50-pair cable will run from White Court to a private switchboard at the Lynn telephone exchange, and all calls of the President and his staff will be handled over these. The lines will be ready June 1.

2 YOUTHS BIND, ATTACK WOMAN IN BROOKLINE

Maid of Apartment House Family in a Serious Condition When Released

Two young men today tied up and attacked Mrs. Helen Hallowell, forty-eight years old, maid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin F. Favorite, No. 94 Naples road, Brookline.

The youths, one of whom at least was armed, then ransacked the room, stole a gold watch and made their escape through the window by which they effected entrance.

Mrs. Hallowell dragged herself to the bedroom of her employer, Mrs. Sara Favorite, where she told her story and then fainted. She is under the care of physicians.

"The only difference in the work is that castings are several pounds lighter than the pig iron," young McCormick declared.

Mrs. Hallowell said she was asleep in her room, at the end of a corridor in the Favorite apartment on Naples road. She was awakened by a window being opened.

The woman started to get up, but was confronted by a young man holding a revolver, who declared he would kill her if she made any noise. While he covered Mrs. Hallowell with the gun, his companion gagged her with a stocking, nearly strangled her with a piece of lingerie, and then bound her hands to opposite sides of the bed.

The men locked the door, but before leaving through the window unlocked the door and loosened the woman's bonds.

The only description their victim could give was that both were young, wearing light caps, and one had on a gray topcoat.

LEGION OPENS VETERAN FUND CAMPAIGN

Bay State Posts Begin Drive for Quota in $5,000,000 Endowment Plan

The national campaign of the American Legion for a $5,000,000 permanent endowment fund for disabled veterans and World War orphans has been opened in Massachusetts, Commander Leo M. Harlow of the Legion State department announced today.

Massachusetts is the first State in the East to which the movement now under way in eleven Southern and Middle Western States has been extended, it was stated.

ONE STATE COMPLETE.

One State, Kentucky, completed its drive, and in ten others, Alabama, Indiana, Illinois, Georgia, Arkansas, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, West Virginia and Virginia, the movement is progressing rapidly. The intensive week in Massachusetts is scheduled for some time in May, Commander Harlow said.

R. A. Harmon of this city has been named as field secretary for the Massachusetts committee on the endowment fund. He will assist the State Legion department and local posts in the preliminary organization work. Everywhere there is a Legion post, a committee for the endowment fund composed of leading citizens, legionnaires and members of the American Legion Auxiliary will be formed.

These committees will be parallel in structure to the State committee, which will have charge of the general campaign plans, Commander Harlow explained.

TO AID VETERANS.

"The endowment movement has been characterized as an undertaking 'for those who gave the most,'" Commander Harlow declared. "The Legion intends to establish the means of giving every deserving ex-service man the chance of rehabilitation.

"The Legion also wants a square deal for the children of men who gave their lives either in combat or as a result of their service. This is an enormous undertaking, which requires the help of every one."

President Coolidge is chairman of the endowment fund national honorary committee, and his entire Cabinet, as well as the heads of the army, navy and marine corps, are members. In addition to high government officials, leading men and women of the country are members of the national committee.

decides that Count Boni de Castellane is still married to Anna Gould. Meanwhile, Anna Gould, divorced from De Castellane by the civil courts of France, has married the Marquis de Talleyrand. So there you have a mix-up. In the eyes of the church the Talleyrand children are not born in wedlock.

IT WOULD INTEREST and surprise Jay Gould, still well remembered by old men in Wall Street, if he could know how many queer things, marriages, divorces, law suits, well-fed counts and marquises, have grown out of the millions that he gathered together.

THE FRENCH FINANCE MINISTER announces an increase in French paper money, perhaps by five thousand million francs.

Wise men will be cautious about calling this "inflation" and trying to knock down the price of the franc. If the French manufacture more paper money it will be because they need it to use it, not to inflate their currency.

In France nothing could be more dangerous than to have the people's money suddenly become worthless. You couldn't do, safely, to the French what was done to the Germans and their mark.

ADMIRAL ROBSON of our glorious navy says the bombing airplane is dangerous to battleships, but "the airplane can't fly very far, so its usefulness is limited."

The answer is, battleships can't shoot very far. To shoot anything in the United States, foreign battleships would have to come within thirty-five miles of the United States coast. The learned admiral knows that airplanes can easily fly thirty-five miles. In fact, the government is building machines that will fly 2,500 miles without stopping. The difference between arguments in favor of battleships is that one argument is a little bit more silly than the other.

THE GRAIN MARKET was sick again yesterday. Gamblers for higher prices overdid the market and themselves. Then came good crop news, and yesterday wheat tumbled still farther down. If only the gamblers were caught it would be all right, but, unfortunately, the farmers are also concerned.

4 WOMEN HURT IN TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS

Mrs. Betty Hooe of Brookline Loses Control of Car and Goes Over Embankment

North Attleboro, April 3.—A two-car crash with two women occupying each of two wrecked cars, resulted in injuries to all four women on the Washington street road near Red Rock Hill.

The injured women are: Mrs. Betty W. Boutwell Hooe, of No. 503 Washington street, Brookline, her mother, Mrs. N. H. Boutwell, Adrina Golombowski, of No. 44 Grant street, North Attleboro, and her mother, Mrs. Josephine Golombowski.

The first two women were sent home after treatment by a physician, while the latter two were taken to the Sturdy Memorial Hospital, the daughter suffering from a broken nose and her mother from a leg injury.

Mrs. Hooe lost control of her machine and crashed over an embankment off the road, shaking and bruising both occupants.

Then William H. Smith, driver of a truck for the Carroll Trucking Co., No. 39 Court street, Boston, halted to go to the women's assistance.

A few minutes later, the Golombowski women drove along, but Adrina was so intent upon the accident that she did not see the truck and crashed into its rear.

DRIVER CONVICTED IN DEATH OF WOMAN

Providence, April 3.—George T. Cole of North Kingstown was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in the Kent County Superior Court, East Greenwich, in connection with the death of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Tyler.

The woman was struck and killed in front of her home on the Post Road, Cowesett, by an automobile operated by Cole, who failed to stop after the accident.

FLAMES ROUT HOTEL GUESTS IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, April 3.—Guests in the Hotel Dreyfus on Washington street were aroused and the late supper dance was broken up early today by fire in the Mercantile Building, next door, which caused several thousands of dollars' damage to stock and furnishings of ground-floor tenants before apparatus called by two alarms brought it under control. One of the firemen was slightly injured.

The blaze started in the structure's furnace room, quickly ate its way through to the floor above and forced dense smoke into the hotel's kitchen. It was attacked from both front and rear and confined to the ground floor.

Fire Razes Old Home

Greenwich, Ct., April 3.—Fire razed the Williams homestead on the Valley Road in Cos Cob last night. The structure, more than a hundred years old, belonged to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and was worth about $40,000.

SOUTH END MAN KILLED BY TRUCK

Driver Surrenders to Police After Accident at Tremont and W. Brookline Streets

Lorne Whitney, aged fifty, of No. 135 West Canton street, South End, died at the City Hospital early today from injuries suffered when he was run down by an automobile truck at the corner of Tremont and West Brookline streets.

Whitney was crossing the street when he was struck by the truck driven by William King of No. 16 Golden street, Medford. He suffered a fracture of the skull and died without regaining consciousness.

King gave himself up to the police and the question of holding him on the charge of manslaughter will be decided in court today.

KLAN DRAGON HELD ON YOUNG GIRL'S CHARGE

Stephenson of Indianapolis Is One of Three Indicted for Attack

Indianapolis, April 3.—D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, was indicted today by the Marion County Grand Jury on five charges in connection with an attack on Miss Oberholtzer of Indianapolis.

Indictments also were returned against Earl Kenck and Earl Gentry, who were companions of Stephenson.

Stephenson, who was arrested on affidavits filed by George E. Oberholtzer, father of the girl, gained notoriety as organizer of the Klan in 21 Northern States.

The grand jury indictments charge Stephenson with assault and battery with intent to kill; malicious mayhem, kidnaping and conspiracy to kidnap. Gentry and Kenck, who are held at $25,000, charged with conspiracy to kidnap, are not being arrested.

An affidavit filed by Dr. John Kingsbury, said Miss Oberholtzer was suffering from the effects of poison tablets taken after the attack and from bodily bruises and will not recover.

Judge Collins fixed Stephenson's bond at $25,000.

CONG. TUCKER RETURNS PART OF PAY CHECK

Washington, April 3.—Following the policy of his grandfather, a member of the fourth Congress, Representative Henry St. George Tucker, Democrat, Virginia, declined today to accept the full value of his March pay check because it carried an increase of $208.33, an amount he holds he is not entitled to because he was elected to a position carrying that much less. He mailed his personal check for that amount back to the treasury with an indorsement explaining its return.

Mr. Tucker, whose grandfather's returns for the same reason have remained to his credit in the treasury for 103 years, believes Congress had no right to raise members' salaries from $7,500 to $10,000 a year without a record vote.

MOTHER SEEKS FUTURE HUBBY FOR GIOIA

New York, April 3 (Universal)—Everything was pink and white—like herself—for the homecoming of Gioia, twenty-one-day old daughter of Gloria Gould Bishop. Mrs. Bishop is the youngest daughter of the late George J. Gould and, in her child hood days, inseparable companion of her sister Edith, now Mrs. Wallace Wright, whose serial account of how the rich live is appearing in the Boston Evening American.

In a handmade dress, which Gioia's mother had embroidered for her first born, Gioia made the trip to her home from Sloan's hospital today.

EVERYTHING SPECIAL.

It is possible that Gioia's blue eyes blinked with joy when she discovered all the preparations which the Gould heiress and her young husband, Henry Bishop, Jr., had prepared for their baby.

In the hallway of the apartment at No. 122 E. 76th street was a huge, gorgeous wicker baby carriage, the last work in luxury. Right into Gioia's own pink and white room Mrs. Bishop took her darling. Gioia was handed into a cream-colored basket, lined with a soft pink silk and decorated with soft pink bows.

PRAISES HUSBAND.

"I'm going to start right now to find a husband for Gioia," said Mrs. Bishop, after depositing Gioia's twelve pounds into the lovely basket.

"I'm going to begin early to get a husband for her so that she'll be sure to get as grand a man as her daddy," said Gloria.

"When Gioia has a baby girl everyone'll think I'm awfully old. I'm afraid. But, I'm glad Gioia has a young mother, because we'll have more fun together than if she had been born later on in my life."

WET SENATOR TO HOLD PARTY WITH A "KICK"

Madison, Wis., April 3.—State Senator Ben Gettleman, Milwaukee, who told a State Senate committee that he was technically violating the State dry act by making wine in his home, has issued an invitation to wet and dry advocates to attend a "fruit juice and cider" party at his residence.

The senator, sponsor of a bill to modify the Severson State dry law by abolishing the penalty for the home manufacture of light beverages for exclusive home consumption, issued his invitation after he had read the newspaper statements of a Milwaukee dry leader doubting that senatorman's wine was as strong as he advertised.

"If he will attend this function, he will be surprised," Senator Gettleman said.

WEEKS IS ILL WITH CLOT IN BRAIN

of the muscles of the left arm, but that no other symptoms had resulted. The statement added that Mr. Weeks should be out in a short time.

The text of the physician's announcement, made public by Acting Secretary Davis at the War Department, follows:

Early in the morning of April 1, Secretary Weeks had a thrombosis of one of the small branches of the middle cerebral artery, producing a weakness of the muscles of the left arm. No other symptoms have resulted. Considering the rapid improvement he has made in the last forty-eight hours, Mr. Weeks should be out in a short time."

Mr. Weeks, who is approaching his sixty-fifth birthday, has not been in robust health for some years. He returned to his office early this week after a two-weeks' stay in Florida, and subsequent visits to other Southern States. He appeared at the time of his return to be enjoying improved health.

In the interval since he returned he has been exercising his functions as Secretary of War. Papers dealing with important War Department business still were being sent to his residence today for his consideration.

Because of his health, however, the secretary in agreeing last month to continue in the Cabinet, did so with the understanding that he would return to private life if his physical condition at any time required a lessening of physical exertion.

Although these alarming symptoms had not yet developed, the Secretary was urged months ago by members of his family to retire to private life. During the latter part of President Harding's administration Mr. Weeks was under the care of physicians, who ordered him to refrain from exercise of an intensive nature, prohibiting even his customary golf games and laying out for him a rigid diet.

Under this treatment his general condition showed improvement and he was rarely absent from his desk at the War Department. The improvement was of such a satisfactory nature that he was encouraged to discard for the time being the idea of giving up his place in the Cabinet.

MAN TRAPPED IN ROOM IS BURNED TO DEATH

New York, April 3 (U.N.S.).—One man was burned to death and two women were injured today in a fire which destroyed the top floor of a boarding house at No. 210 Lenox avenue.

John Bauman, a roomer, was trapped in his room, where the flames started, and perished. Miss Elizabeth Miller was carried down a scaling ladder by a fireman just as she prepared to leap from the top floor.

Charles Marko, the landlord, and Mrs. Anna McRea were burned.

Friends Flock to Applaud Popular Society Dancers

Distinguished List of Patronesses Named for Music School Settlement Program in Jordan Hall

Betty Alden

MISS BERTHE AND MISS FRANCESCA BRAGGIOTTI, Society's popular and widely acclaimed dancers, are making their annual excursion into professional fields this week, and their hosts of friends and admirers throughout the Fashionable World are flocking to see and applaud them at a local theatre.

NATURALLY THESE EXTREMELY clever girls, with their attending band of corypheus, are "headliners" whenever they appear. For the mental and inspiration of the act they drew from the colorful and exotic Orient. The result is a gorgeous riot of color, rich blues and gleaming golden tones predominating as a setting for marvelous interpretative dancing.

A FINE SHOWING of the younger element of the elect has been in attendance at the matinees. At one performance I saw Mrs. Philip Stockton with a party of young girls, Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer playing the chaperon for her younger daughter and a group of friends, and also Mrs. Gerald Boardman.

THEY ARE ALL mothers of lovely young girls destined to be belles when they make their bows to Society some years hence. Miss Mary Stockton is the daughter in the Philip Stockton family. The Ayers have two daughters, the elder, Miss Theodora Ayer, who was presented the past season, and the younger daughter, Miss Anne Ayer, a schoolgirl still.

MRS. BOARDMAN'S daughter, Miss Agnes Boardman, is a charming girl, with much of the verve and elan which make her mother such a popular member of the Senior Dance and Assembly Sets. In fact, all three girls just mentioned will take high place in their smart world, by right of family and tradition, when they come out.

MRS. S. HUNTINGTON WOLCOTT, with one of her boys, and Mrs. Robert Lesson, with her young son, were at a matinee. Speaking of future debutantes, Mrs. Wolcott has a daughter, Miss Edith Wolcott, destined to shine in the debutante world in a not-long-distant season.

MRS. WOLCOTT was a Stevenson, and the young girl is highly connected both on the paternal and maternal sides. She is a clever sailor and spends many a Summer day at the tiller of her small boat. Both she and her brothers are prominent in the activities of the Junior Eastern Yacht Club at Marblehead.

Mrs. George L. Foote of Louisburg square. Her home there is called "Edge House." Mrs. Foote is a leader in musical affairs, one of her particular interests the South End Music School and its achievements.

THERE IS A LONG and impressive list of patronesses for next Tuesday's concert at Jordan Hall, when pupils of the Boston Music School Settlement may be heard in a special program.

MESDAMES Theodore Chadwick, Louis Coolidge, Channing Cox, George R. Dabney, Robert Homans, Conrad Hobbs, Eben S. Draper, Henry D. Tudor, Walter M. Pratt, Eliot Wadsworth, John Reed Post, Walter S. Bartles, John L. Grandin, Jr., and Curtis Guild are some of those noted.

OTHERS ARE Mrs. John Chipman Gray, Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, Mrs. W. S. H. Lothrop, Mrs. Horace Binney, Mrs. John L. Ames and Mrs. Robert Dodge. That matron whose name is synonymous with great good works in the field of music, Mrs. Charles Bonda, is the guiding spirit of the concert and for the Music Settlement as well.

GLANCING AHEAD a bit into what the more distant future holds in the way of musical treats, there is to be seen on the May program that ambitious endeavor known as the "Musical Mosaics" to be given in the Fine Arts Theatre May 6 and 7.

EVERY MUSIC SCHOOL settlement in the city—and there are several such, all most deserving and all doing a splendid work—is to benefit from the proceeds of the affair, which go to form a sort of "community chest" into which the schools may dip from time to time as necessary.

THE "MOSAICS" will be a part of Music Week, which is generally directed by Mrs. William Arms Fisher. Every person of musical importance in town is enrolled in some capacity, and the history of music from Palestrina right down to Richard Strauss will be shown in a series of episodes.

COURTENAY GUILD is to do a famous musician, and Mr. Clive of the Copley Players is supervising some of the dramatic effort. Altogether the affair promises to be as stupendous an undertaking as musical Boston may see for some time.

BISHOP LAWRENCE TO HAVE SPECIAL SERVICES

Bishop Lawrence will preach at the noonday services in St. Paul's Cathedral on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of Passion Week. On Monday and Saturday, the Rev. D. R. Aldrich will speak. The 1:10 o'clock noonday service will be conducted every day, except Friday, by the Rev. John W. Suter, Jr.

On Maundy Thursday at 8 o'clock, there will be a special communion service. Good Friday will be observed with Holy Communion and Litany at 9:45 o'clock, Ante-Communion and sermon by the Rev. D. B. Aldrich at 10:30 o'clock, and the special three-hour service conducted by Dean Rousmaniere from 12 to 3 p. m. This service will be divided into nine twenty-minute periods to enable anyone to enter or leave the Cathedral.

RADIO VIOLINIST IS HONORED BY CONFERES

Oscar Wall, the "American Poet of the Violin," favorite with the radio fans by his own efforts and that of his string trio, has just received a most valuable and prized award. Eighty of the foremost musicians in America today, competed for the scholarship awarded by the Juilliard Foundation, worth at least $1,000.

SHEBO — The Girl Who Became a Boy — by Tiffany Wells

A Virile, Human Story of a Girl of Today

The Story Thus Far

LIKE a tired gull to a ship's rigging came Barbara Brown out of the New Year's blizzard to the jewel house in Ryeneck, where J. B. Hardiman was wont to indulge his overlord fancy for youth and beauty. She stayed that night and woke to find herself mistress of the place—at a price. Rather than pay the price, Barbara, one chill night, stole the gardener's clothes, fled from the house of tribulations and found herself on the high road. She takes a chance in a guessing contest for $50 in gold.

Mazie yanked Barbara's cap off

"My, say, where did you get it?"

"Oh, over the river," Sheba was determined to keep a secret, naively.

"I tell you," she said. "For the gold I give you and gratis toss in the dress. It's a risky business."

But the price marked ten dollars, protested Barbara. Why, it was a rag.

"It's a risky business," he repeated. "Maybe if you don't do business that way I can get you better bargains."

She understood. He thought she was a thief. She expected she would. Her voice expressed the disgust of Boston and Landrau as she stepped.

She changed behind the counter. She avoided him as he waved her to adjust the fit, and Barbara bought the dress and paid him $25 in change.

There was a dusty mirror at the end of the room. She went and posed before it. An impulse she could not check overcame her lips.

"Oh! You good looking thing! I could have loved you!"

Suddenly the pawnbroker regarded Nan.

"It shouldn't have given me that," he muttered.

The hand me down blue suit was [illegible]

DOWAGER CONTROLLED GOULD FAMILY

The late Mrs. Kingdon, mother of the late Mrs. George J. Gould, a dowager of the old school and a mother-in-law highly esteemed by Mr. Gould. Mrs. Kingdon kept a sharp eye on the rearing of the Gould children and insisted that she be consulted in all family matters.

Furlong Lodge, George J. Gould's country home in the Catskills. The photograph was made by the owner. The family spent part of each year at this mountain home, where life was much less formal than at Georgian Court, or at the Fifth avenue mansion. The children enjoyed themselves hugely at the lodge, finding tramping in the beautiful mountains a delight. Tennis courts also gave them plenty of outdoor exercise here.

affection upon my brothers, too, especially Kingdon, her namesake.

Boys always seemed more important to her than girls, and when she presided at the nursery dining table it was my brothers who got the choicest morsels. The best of everything was always "saved for the boys."

Great ado was made over [illegible] her sons. Not only did she give them [illegible] but she [illegible] parties for them on the terrace of Georgian Court or at Furlough Lodge in the Catskills.

[illegible] to explain that the children were rarely invited into the couple because of the [illegible] Kingdon, Jay, Marjorie and Vivien grew up together. George, Gloria and I were the younger group. When some of the second group were being educated by governesses, the first were young men and women. Grandmamma was to the elder children what Miss Cortis was to George, Gloria and me. She directed their instruction and diet. "Aunt" Carrie arriving on the scene soon after George was born.

Gloria was always afraid of grandmamma, whose ideas of nursery discipline became stricter with advancing years. "Baby," as she was affectionately called, showed her nervousness when Mrs. Kingdon was present, by fidgeting, which proved annoying to her grandmother. In order to cure the child of the habit, she would make her sit in a chair motionless while she (grandmamma) counted twenty-five slowly. If Gloria budged she would start the twenty-five all over again. George used to say that this procedure reminded him of [illegible] his bar cut, an operation that caused him much displeasure.

No family event was planned without consulting grandmamma, who was then living at Georgian Court. A result of this failure to ask grandmamma's advice about the change of residence was a strongly phrased telegram of reproach, a message that greatly exceeded the customary ten words in length.

Happy at Lakewood

The happiest years of her later life were spent at Lakewood, where she took a prominent part in church affairs. She was very popular in the town where she was a leader in all kinds of charitable enterprises. A good deal of her time was spent in organizing the annual church bazaar for the benefit of the missions in China.

Bridge had not yet come into vogue but on a week [illegible] gave a whist party for the ladies of the church. Occasionally of an evening she would telephone papa to come down from the city to play cribbage with her—and he always did it!

A very active and energetic woman she refused to acknowledge the infirmities of advancing years. Although she had two sisters, Mrs. Great Aunts Meggs and Emily, she declined to remain in their company when the family went abroad in May of 1911. Mamma suggested that it would be well for her to rest at Furlough Lodge with her sisters, but grandmamma, a born traveler, demurred, saying that she really should go back to Divonne-les-Bains, where she had derived much good from the treatments the year before.

Died in Paris

She went with us and the voyage wore her out. Taken seriously ill on the steamship, she sank rapidly after being taken to the Ritz Hotel, Paris, and died soon after we arrived in June.

The pleasures of grouse shooting in Scotland will be the subject of the next article.

GYPSY GIRLS SOUGHT ON LARCENY CHARGE

Brockton, April 3. — Two gypsy girls, dressed in native garb and driving an expensive closed car, are being sought by the local police on a charge of larceny. Several complaints were lodged against them to the police.

TWO NEW RADIO STATIONS ARE OPPOSED

Representatives of the leading broadcasting stations in New England, at a meeting here, turned down the suggestion of a representative of the United States Department of Commerce, that in order to permit two new stations, one in Maine and the other in Worcester, one of them be silent for a part of each day.

The opposition to the suggestion was led by Walter O. Lowles of WTIC, Hartford, who declared that the stations record their wave lengths as exclusive franchises to those air channels.

Radio Supervisor for New England, Charles C. Kolster, voiced a different opinion and urged the broadcasters to agree to a division of time, saying that no station could operate twenty-four hours a day and give the listening public a program of acceptable broadcast material. The broadcasters refused to consider his suggestion.

The Maine Legislature is now considering a bill for the establishment of a State-controlled broadcasting station. Maine representatives pointed out that the people in the vicinity of Portland, Bangor and in the interior of Maine are now without radio service, WEEI, they said, being the only station to be heard there with any degree of regularity and then only on favorable nights.

John Shepard, 3d, seeking a more favorable wave length for his station, endeavored to swap channels with WTIC of Hartford but the Hartford station owner was not agreeable to the change.

"MIDGET" SMITH, BOXER, ARRESTED IN LARCENY

New York, April 3.—William J. "Midget" Smith, bantamweight boxer, was arrested in front of his hotel here today on a bequest from Sheriff Hovey of Ballston Spa at New York. Hovey said he had a warrant charging Smith with grand larceny. Police said Smith told them the warrant might have been issued in connection with the sale of an automobile. The sale, he said, was legitimate.

JAPAN TO BUILD 22 NEW WARSHIPS

Tokio, April 3 (A P.)—The Japanese Navy Department today announced plans for the construction of twenty-two warships, with a total tonnage of 124,900, to include eight first-class cruisers, three second-class cruisers, ten destroyers and an airplane mother ship.

The ministry of war is sending seven experts to France, five to America, three to England and three years to investigate the development of new warplanes.

NEW RADIO HANDBOOK ISSUED TO OUR FRIENDS THE RADIO PUBLIC BY THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

If you have a radio set—if you are going to build one or merely considering it—the master mind should have one of these new Boston Evening American Radio Handbooks.

A beautiful colored cover[ed] [illegible] printed on magazine paper.

It is just what the radio fa[n] needs to make radio entertainment more success[ful] and more interesting. The valuable informat[ion] that is contained in this book is [illegible] simple, all of the intricacies of radio. It explains [in] full all of the working parts of radio and the book is arranged in such a manner that it is easy to find just the particular data that it may be necessary for the overhaul[ing] of your set, so that reception is as desired.

You can't get along without it.
You will find everything in it.
You pay nothing for it.
The following is some of the information contained therein—a[n] [illegible]
A double-page Trouble Chart—with which you can locate any trouble—the cause and the remedy are pointed out for you—in chart form. A Radio education in itself.
A dictionary of radio words with definitions of their meaning.
A list of diagram abbreviations with their explanations. Data on antennas, batteries, buzzers, phones, loud speakers, grounds, radio frequencies, grid leaks, resistance units and condensers.
A list of recent changes in wavelengths [illegible] call letters and the new and regulations governing Broadcasting stations.
Complete data on the Boston Evening American [illegible] set and there is detailed information on building a four. It can't be set. If you have a radio set you will want this Handbook. And you can have it by applying to your Radio Dealer or applying for it at the Radio Department of the Boston Evening American. Sent [illegible] postpaid to the Radio public with the compliments of the Boston Evening American. It's absolutely free.

350 degrees for BREAD
250 degrees for COLD PACK CANNING and WHOLE MEAL COOKING

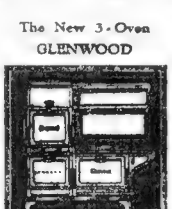
Take every afternoon off — Why not?

WHY spend your afternoons in the kitchen watching and worrying over the cooking of your evening meal? Let a Glenwood do it. This new 3-oven gas range will give you more free time to spend with your children and your friends.

It is equipped with two Glenwood Robertshaw oven heat controls which scientifically (and without supervision) take all the responsibility of whole-meal cooking off your hands.

A touch of your fingers will set the dial to the temperature indicated on the Glenwood Robertshaw time chart and when you come back, hours later, your meal will be ready to serve.

The New 3-Oven GLENWOOD



There is ample room in this new range for all kinds of cooking—2 large baking ovens, a broiling oven, 6 gas burners, 2 simmerers, a warming closet and a canopy shelf. Finished in standard black or in full porcelain enamel, inside and out.

LUNDEN WINS RIGHT TO BATTLE MUNN AT ARENA ON APRIL 16

GIANT SWEDE PUTS MALCEWICZ DOWN IN 18 1-2 MINUTES

By JACK CONWAY

ALEX LUNDEN, sensational Swedish heavyweight wrestler, has been matched to battle Wayne (Big) Munn, world's champion, on a finish bout, best two falls out of three, at the Mechanics Arena on April 16 under the direction of Paul Bowser, as result of his superlative victory over Sergeant Joe Malcewicz at the Lexington Opera House [illegible] a victory over Malcewicz. The latter was never better than he was in his contest with the Swedish champion. He was as fast as light[illegible] and landed upon a bold effort by Malcewicz to turn the tide of battle in his favor.

While Malcewicz realized that on a straight wrestling he didn't have a chance of winning over Lunden, he called upon strategy in an effort to win.

[illegible] Malcewicz made [illegible] Lunden, six feet three inches tall and weighing 230 pounds, is as fast as a middleweight. Furthermore, he possesses a million holds and flips them on almost faster than the eye can see.

THE Swedish sensational apparently had been looking for just such an opening. He broke Malcewicz's hold with a double wrist lock, then lifted his opponent high in the air and crashed him to the canvas with a back fall like he did Stasick a week ago.

BRAVES TO PACK UP AFTER TODAY'S GAME IN THE SOUTH

GLAD TO BE BOUND HOME

By NICK FLATLEY.

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 3—The Braves had their last Florida practice session today. A game with the local heroes and all will be over but the packing up.

And the athletes will be glad of it. They are all set to get on some fine diamonds, where leagues bound truly and charlie horses are not connected in even a footpad.

The sand and bees will have to be eliminated from the diamond by another year, or there'll be an Outlaws' strike. There is decided edge about the training camp in Florida that has been handed down from fathers.

It's more athletes are going to be cut loose by the club, having been decided that at least that many lack the proper class and experience to be retained.

Two or three others will be sent down to the minors for seasoning, with arrangements already. Among the latter will be Ken Brunt and Ogden Oldham, unquestionably. The two sensational kid pitchers need experience.

STARTED OUT BIG.

Both of them started off like world beaters, but that was before they knew what it was all about. They didn't have any notion just how tough the average batters and runners make things for the pitchers.

In their latter appearances the two boys were raw. Both have natural stuff, and both have good fielding futures, but practice to see a week is needed to make the pitchers perfect. And the only place it can get that is in a game.

Affairs at present are very quiet in camp. There are no principles to speak of, and nobody is being pushed. Mickey O'Neil is working hard to make up for the time he lost while holding out, but he doesn't need a great deal of exercise.

He has been going in and catching the batting practice which is a very good sign for Mickey.

That sort of a place on the third stringers also. The regular backstops spurn it. Our Master O'Neil has been quite a prima donna in the past, and would never think of such a thing. But he's glad to get the work now, showing that he has performed. If he keeps up that attitude through the campaign, he will show the league a lot of catching.

HAS NEW IDEAS.

A sulking athlete is worse than none, because his grouch is infectious. Mickey has had indications that way, too. But all seems to be buried in the past. The young man has new ideas, and saw that the Braves had a new ball club. So he's likely to be a big help to it.

SCHAEFER MAY SEEK TITLE IN 3 CUSHIONS

Chicago, April 3 (U.N.S.)—Jake Schaefer, who is the ballkline billiard champion longest in point queries.

"I have no other [illegible] title next year" said Schaefer.

"Yes, I think I could win [illegible] crown at the three-cushion style of play," continued Jake. "I would have to give up balkline play for a time. The two games don't mix. You've got to play one or the other. Balkline is my favorite game. This is the game at which I am champion.

Then Jake spoke a sensation. "Next to balkline, I like pocket billiards best. I consider myself a pretty fair [illegible] game being [illegible] so around in it. I'm a bum [illegible] like all the rest of the golf [illegible].

Jake said his hands are insured for $50,000, and he never takes a chance with them by playing baseball.

Schaefer, a tall, serious-faced athlete of thirty years, is the son of the late Jake (Wizard) Schaefer [illegible] billiards, he said, since he was ten [illegible].

Wizard Schaefer was slipping from the top of the billiard heap when Willie Hoppe, then the "Boy Wonder," was coming to the front.

RENAULT IN LINE TO GET BATTLE WITH WILLS

By RINGSIDE.

WITH the Wilson-Shade bout called off for the time being, due to Shade's attack of eclipse at the Cook-Lawson postponement until a week from tomorrow night, Jack Renault of New York and Jack Renault of New York will have the spotlight all to themselves during the next few days. The two are billed to clash in a ten-round bout under the auspices of the Ismaili A. C. at the Boston Arena on next Monday night.

Heavyweight bouts are always popular with the fans. This is particularly true when [illegible] as the case with Renault and Starr.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

THE latest thing in some college towns is a spooning bureau where the students can get the names of the girls who pet and those who don't.

THIS isn't very romantic, but it saves a lot of time.

A COLLEGE boy can take a co-ed out and know in advance whether or not she's going to kiss him good night.

HE doesn't have to waste the whole evening wondering.

YOU don't like to spend ten or fifteen dollars on a dume and then have to put your arms around your own neck.

AND a man can't very well sit on his own lap.

THE information about the different co-eds is gathered by the campus lady killers.

THEY'RE the advance Sheiks.

THEY'RE nothing but Cupids in college boy's clothing.

THEY make memorandums of a girl's hugs and take her kisses down in shorthand.

THIS bureau has blue prints of every pair of feminine lips in the university.

MEMBERS can tell beforehand just how much they're going to enjoy a co-ed's kisses.

THE diagram shows you right where her lips are so that when you go out with her you don't have to hunt for them.

ALL you have to do it to tell her that you belong to this spooning bureau and she won't try to kid you along.

WHENEVER a freshman goes on a petting party with a co-ed he has to turn in a report as soon as he gets back.

THIS is to save the way and make it easier for the sophomores.

IT also saves a senior a lot of guesswork in case he ever takes her out.

HE carries the freshman's report in his pocket so that he can't make any mistakes.

THOUSANDS of our accountants have attended universities, but the average student was a better bookkeeper while he was in college than he is after he gets out.

THIS bureau has blue prints of every pair of feminine lips in

BRINGING UP ESME

By LUCY LOWELL

"MARVELOUS!" ejaculated mother. "Such intelligence! Such dignity! And that blessed baby only five!

"Marvelous!" echoed auntie, hugging the chubby boy till he gasped for breath.

Esme—the name was mother's choice—had done one of the ordinary kid things that never failed to astonish his female relatives. As a matter of fact, they always were ejaculating over the youngster and hugging him till he gasped.

But that was before his first day at public school.

It was when auntie and mother used to awaken him with a little song—they called it a song—all about little birdies and little flowers and so on—outside the nursery door.

Then they put his small garments on, with a little poem to go with each, and led him downstairs to breakfast, holding both his hands.

Once when he suggested that he might walk downstairs by himself they became like two stricken women. A baby of five descend those steep, horrid steps, with no one to save him if he should stub his toe?

At the table he was given an egg "which the nice chickie laid purpose-ly for Esme." Then there was milk "that the cow gave because she loved Auntie's baby." And so on.

Then Esme's sixth birthday came along and despite Mother's tears Daddy said he would go to school. Not only would he go to school, but he would go to public school.

He came back at noon with a swollen eye, a torn blouse and handfuls of his nice curls all pulled out.

Mother fainted; Auntie shrieked. They fell upon him like a couple of furies, bathing, hugging, showering him with tears.

"You'll never, never go back again!" they moaned, as they brought him milk that the dear cow gave for him and bread the baker-man made for him.

Esme suddenly looked like his father.

"I AM going back to school," he announced. "I'm going to school every day an' bye-bye I'll lick the fellers that called me 'Molly.' An' the cow didn't give milk for ME. It never saw me, an' the baker-man didn't make his bread for me.

"An' I'm big now an' I'm going to come down with ALONE! An I'm not Auntie's baby or anybody's baby!"

Mother fainted again. But for the first time Esme could remember, Daddy smiled at him.

"Atta boy, old scout!" murmured Daddy. "Tonight I'll bring home a pair of boxing gloves."

And they nodded at each other.

BEDTIME STORY

The Busy Life of a Queen

By Foxy Grandpa.

WE HAD watched our bees build their hive, with the cells for nurseries, drones and for a storehouse for honey. Now the next thing was—who or what was going to arrange about the use of these beautifully constructed six-sided cells?

"Now what is going to happen?" asked Bobby as we walked down to the hive.

"The most important thing about a swarm of bees," I answered.

"What, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby.

"Now is the time when the queen-bee takes charge," I replied.

There she was, the queen-bee with her attendants. First she examined each of the nursery cells carefully to see that they were properly built. Then she laid an egg in each.

All the while the neuter bees accompanied her with food, so that she would not be hungry.

"My!" said Bobby, "won't she have a lot of children to look out for! She's just like the old woman who lived in the shoe."

"Not exactly," I laughed. "Although the old woman who lived in the shoe had so many children she didn't know what to do, she washed her children and fed them, and put them to bed."

"Yes," agreed Bobby, "and spanked them all soundly. . . .

"But this queen is strange and would seem unnatural as far as her many children are concerned," I said.

"How, Foxy Grandpa?" asked the inquisitive Bobby.

"Although the queen-bee gives up her entire life to laying eggs and the whole future family of bees of her swarm depends upon her, after the eggs are laid she loses all interest in her future children."

"How strange!" murmured Bobby. "But the workers make up for her neglect," I continued. "They are very faithful nurses.

"As soon as the queen-bee lays an egg in a cell, the workers quickly put in with the egg a kind of jelly, which is made of honey, mixed with the pollen of flowers."

"Yum, yum," grunted Bobby, rubbing his tummy and smacking his little red lips.

"On the fourth day after the egg is laid the little grub makes its appearance," I went on.

"And eats the jelly?" asked Bobby.

"Exactly," I replied. "And as soon as it has eaten all of the jelly the workers bring it some beebread, which is pollen pressed firmly together."

"Personally, I like the bread and jelly together," suggested Bobby.

"But you're not a bee, Bobby," I laughed, "even if your name does start with one."

"In about seven days the grub is full grown. Then the workers cover it up tight and warm in its cell by covering it with a waxen lid.

"Then the little grub starts work. It spins a cocoon. Before you know it, it is a pupa or chrysalis."

"It certainly is a lot of things before it becomes a bee," said Bobby.

"Yes," I said. "For ten days it is a chrysalis and at the end of that time the skin bursts and out comes a perfect bee."

Bunny jumped aside as a bee buzzed near his left ear and said:

"And starts to get busy right away."

WHY WIVES QUIT

By BEULAH VAN

"WHY IS IT that you need a new hat or a new pair of shoes every time pay day comes around? My first wife was never so extravagant—she was so timid about asking me for money that I had to suggest it myself. She was still wearing out her trousseau when she died, poor thing. I guess the old saying about the good dying young is right. We poor men don't realize when we have a good thing."

"If I do say it myself, that dinner last night was the worst one I've ever eaten. I thought you said you knew how to cook. What I had indigestion and had dreams all night long. It was the dinner, I tell you, we boys didn't have a thing to eat the night that is one night you would hurt us."

"I can't see why you don't like me playing golf—it's the cheapest play. And I'll wager those ladies don't bawl them out about it every time. If you would just be frank with yourself, you're glad to have me out of your way. You know the doctor said I needed more exercise. No, I can't beat rugs or move furniture—that would be too much of a strain on my heart."

"It certainly is a pity that I can't spend a quiet evening at home any more—I'm tired of trying to entertain those jazz hounds every night. The only way I can get to sleep is to snore them myself. My grocery bill looks like the French national debt, the way those birds eat. Of course we've got to get Susie married, but I'm sick and tired of those guys. Two months after the honeymoon, Susie and her husband would be back here parking under our table again."

Hiding a rash won't heal it

Attempts to conceal complexion blemishes usually fail, and only serve to draw attention to the defects.

Underneath most unattractive skins is a clear, pleasing complexion—all that is needed is the proper treatment. It is surprising how often a brief use of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap will clear away blotches, redness and roughness and give the skin its natural freshness and charm.

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vicks in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on and the body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine and others in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go overnight, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

STOCKS MIXED IN NEW YORK

Stocks started somewhat higher in New York. Under the leadership of motor and accessory shares, prices emerged ahead until a renewal of selling pressure against American Can and Baldwin around noon again unsettled the market.

Trading was in reduced volume and general buying was of a cautious character, although copper, oil, chemical and merchandise issues were in demand. Atlantic Refining rose almost 2 points, and Nash Motors soared from 305 to 312½, a record high price.

Gains of 2 to 3¾ points were recorded by Pierce Arrow Motor preferred issues, Union Tank Car, Central Leather preferred, Union Bag & Paper, and calumet & Arizona.

Mack Truck fell back to 136¾, more than 3 points under Thursday's high, on denial General Motors interests were contemplating control of the company. Call money renewed at 3½ per cent.

Boston Elevated, which was the most active issue on the Boston Stock Exchange Wednesday, but which did not figure in Thursday's transactions, was again traded in to some extent this afternoon, changing hands at 77¾, up ¾. Mohawk added 2¼ at 29½.

N. L. Amster announced opposition to revised plan of Boston & Maine readjustment and the common stock sold off ⅞ at 14¾.

Amoskeag was up ¼ at 45¾, and Pacific Mills had a little advance at 59¾. Hood Rubber rose a point at 55.

NEW YORK STARTS WAR ON SWINDLING IN STOCKS

State-wide war against all forms of speculation in promotion or sale of stocks and bonds, commodities like grain, coffee and sugar dealt in on exchanges, and certain other forms of dealings in foreign exchanges, has been opened in New York State by Attorney-General Ottinger, following approval by the Governor of amendments to Martin law.

Grains Are Lower

Chicago grains were dull and lower. Wheat—May 142¾ to 143; July 132¾ to 133½; Sept. 125¼ to 126. Corn—May 99 to 99½; July 100 to 100¾; Sept. 101¾ to 102. Oats—May 39 to 39¼; July 41 to 41⅛; Sept. 42 to 42⅜.

State Street Notes

NEW ENGLAND'S MILLS DOING BETTER

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor.

New England's cotton mills, it can be said today, are doing a little better than breaking even. This is a distinct turn for betterment.

Table herewith compares prices of some of the better known mill securities now and a year ago:

	Price. Current year price.	Ago. Change

President E. H. H. Simmons of the New York Stock Exchange points out that his organization has inaugurated a nationwide drive against security frauds. Through its members, branch offices, managers and correspondents in every State, it set up a central bureau for the receipt of complaints and the analysis of cases submitted and vigorous co-

E. H. H. Simmons operation with the authorities.

"Many evidences of a so-called shakeout, but none of a genuine bear movement, are revealed by a study of the statistical position of the market," says Moody's.

One Law for All

Why Discriminate Between Drinking Pilots and Drinking Drivers?

By the terms of a bill that has just become a law of Massachusetts a pilot found guilty of operating an airplane while he is under the influence of liquor must serve a jail sentence, whether it be his first offense or his fiftieth.

By the terms of a bill, soon to become a law of Massachusetts, unless vetoed by His Excellency the Governor, a driver found guilty of operating an automobile while he is under the influence of liquor will escape a jail sentence until he has become a second offender.

Why does the Massachusetts Legislature discriminate in favor of the first offender on the ground and against the first offender in the air? The drinking driver of an automobile gambles with the lives of others. The drinking pilot of an airplane gambles only with his own life, unless he is carrying a passenger or flying over a thickly populated area.

Drinking drivers of automobiles in Massachusetts today can be counted by the hundreds, if not by the thousands. You can count on the fingers of one hand the licensed pilots who liquor up in preparation for a hop around New England.

Are not the bureaucrats in brass buttons at Washington doing enough to keep America last in the air without assistance in their blind folly from the Republican officeholders on Beacon Hill?

Surely the New England State which was the first to build an Airport on the Atlantic coast and the first of all the States to welcome home the World Flight—six young Americans who were the first of all the children of men to fly around the world—surely the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should be the last to discriminate against the Air Service and in favor of the drinking driver of an automobile.

Now, as always, the Boston Evening American believes in one law for all—for the rich and for the poor, for the citizen by birth and the citizen by adoption, for the wage-earner and the wage-payer, for the drinking driver of an automobile and the drinking pilot of an airplane.

Because Governor Fuller has approved imprisonment for the first offender in the air surely he is obliged to demand imprisonment for the first offender on the ground.

Let Governor Fuller veto the bill exempting the first offender against the law which forbids the operation of an automobile by a drinking driver. Then the Legislature will send to his desk an amended bill bringing the first offender within the pale. Public sentiment will see to that.

Public sentiment supports one law for all—one law for the drinking driver and the same law for the drinking pilot.

Coolidge Is Right on Foreign Loans

President Coolidge is right in opposing the making of any more private American loans to European powers where the money is to go for military purposes.

While the President's declaration is a general one, it applies with such deadly directness to France that the purpose behind the declaration cannot be questioned.

Our debtor to the extent of some four billion dollars, of which not one cent has been paid by way of principal or interest, France now is indifferent to the President's invitation to participate in an international conference to reduce the armaments of nations.

Refusing to pay us what she borrowed for old wars, France proposes to keep on borrowing from us the money with which to fight new wars!

Since the Treaty of Versailles she has been spending money like water—other people's money, and much of it our money. For two years after the armistice she continued to get money out of the United States treasury, in all about one billion dollars.

Then, when our national treasury was closed to her ever-extended palm, France borrowed from American investors, through international bankers, and this has gone on to the present time.

The work of reconstruction in France has gone on with all the mad delirium of a thousand American oil towns on a boom. Germany was to pay for all of it in the end, and this added to the zest of the occasion. Towns, factories, palaces of amusement, hotels, armies, navies, innumerable airplanes, electrification of water power, subsidizing of military allies—all of these have come in a constantly swelling, rising tide of hectic national inflation.

Everything has been at the expense of Germany—and until the day when Germany pays, most of it is at the expense of the United States, whose citizens have been induced to contribute by gracious international bankers who have been compensated for that graciousness by commissions which make Gerald Chapman's most ambitious exploits seem tame.

It has been a glorious joy-ride for France—a joy-ride not confined to her own domain, but extending to Morocco, where our money has been spent to make golden anchors for French dreams of empire, and extending also into Poland, Jugo-Slavia, where our money has been lavished to forge military alliances for days to come.

It has been one vast national spree, a spree for which a hated and a vanquished foe was to pay, but until said hated and vanquished foe does pay, your Uncle Samuel and his nephews are to hold the sack, and if Germany, the aforesaid hated foe, never does pay, then Uncle and nephews will have a glorious chance to hold the sack indefinitely!

President Coolidge is entitled to great credit for taking his stand against the further pillage of American investors.

This stand will stay the international bankers' hand and stop this stream of gold!

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

WHT does everybody pity a man who is "married to the wrong woman?"

A husband may be "just one of the wedding gifts"—but a wife is a man's own fault.

* * *

All chivalrous arguments to the contrary notwithstanding, it is the MAN who does the "choosing," whether it be choosing a dinner-partner, a dance-partner or a life-partner. If you don't believe it, just try to marry one of them against his will.

Helen Rowland

If a man picks out a wife for the shape of her nose or the slenderness of her ankle or the dimple in her elbow, why pity him because she turns out to be a dumbbell with one brain cell or a kleptomanic?

* * *

If he insists on marrying a woman simply because she amuses him, why feel sorry for him when she won't cook for him, too?

* * *

If he dodges "the right girl" just because he doesn't happen to be in the marrying mood and then grabs some "innocent bystander" just because he DOES happen to be in the mood, why sympathize with him?

* * *

As long as he continues to fall in love through his eyes and his senses, instead of with his heart and his mind, why pity him if he gets something beautiful but dumb who BORES him to death?

* * *

As long as he prefers incense to common sense, why pity him if he gets a wife who flatters him in one breath and asks him for money in the next.

* * *

As long as he passes the girl who would be a life-long inspirator, in order to pursue a fluffy, little temporary diversion, why shed tears over him when he groans that he is "misunderstood?"

* * *

Oh, I know how it is! They DO seem sort of pitiable and helpless, I'VE patted their hands and said, "There, there, now!"

* * *

But, all the time my dear heart was not with them—nor with the woman they SHOULD have married and didn't—but with the woman they SHOULDN'T have married and DID!

* * *

"If he had had the RIGHT KIND OF A WIFE he never would have gone the pace, forged the check, speculated in Wall Street, played the races or gotten tangled up with the other woman!" says the world.

* * *

Of course, he wouldn't! And if he hadn't eaten cabbage and mushrooms he never would have had indigestion. If he had not swallowed the cocktail, he never would have had the headache. Sweet apple-sauce.

Choosing a wife is the most important act of a man's life—and the one to which he gives the least thought, time, attention and intelligence.

* * *

He holds all the cards in his hand. And, when he plays a little two-spot instead of the queen of hearts, he expects to be pitied.

* * *

And we pity him! Heaven knows why!

THE HELPING HAND

Letters Not Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls or Anonymous Letters. No Names Published.

The editor asks that the kind readers refrain from sending buddies to her. Upon request, she will gladly furnish name to whom these may be sent direct. This will avoid unnecessary delay.

Almost Frantic.

Helping Hand Editor:

For the past five and a half months, with the exception of one or two days, my husband has been without work. There are five of us and the landlord has sent us notice to move in two weeks. I am expecting the stork any time within that time and I hardly know which way to turn. Isn't there some kind reader who could give him work. He has worked as a shipper and teamster, also can do any kind of laborers work. He has practically walked his shoes off looking for employment.

"ALMOST FRANTIC."

Needs a Home.

Helping Hand Editor:

I took into my home a dear old lady whose son is now in jail for having abused her, to keep her from being put into the poorhouse. I am poor myself, husband without work, but as this old lady wants to be by herself, I am asking if some kind readers can help her out a bit so she can fix up a little place.

MRS. M. R. 2.

Seeks Job In Vain.

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a widow with children to care for. One boy has looked everywhere for work, but cannot find it. He can do anything and would be so happy if he could get something to do. He must get work or we are lost.

MRS. B. L.

Others In Need.

Mrs. S asks for suit and shoes, size 8, for husband who will be home from hospital in a few weeks. Would also like old pieces of rugs and some curtains.

Mrs. M. J. C. asks for clothing for her seven little ones, girls 12, 8, 7 and 3 and boys 10, 6 and 18 months, and for herself, 38 or 40. Have had lots of sickness and father's earnings just enough to buy food and pay rent.

Mary W. in need of dress and coat, size 38, for herself and for sister, 12. Brothers, 10 and 5, suits and coat. Mother dress and coat, size 44. Father troubled with asthma and just gets enough work to provide food.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

WHERE is the road to laughter
tinkling like silver bells, sweet as the wind's faint music over the woodland dells?
Where is the key of gladness, opening our prison bars, loosing man's soul to wander fetterless under stars? Where is the way of weeping, sorrow and vain regret; man, like a bird that struggles, caught in the fowler's net?
Questions no man can answer, riddles that none can read; hidden away like the future, one with the earth-covered seed. Only one torch for the roadway, only one key for release, only the soul knows its journey leading from passion to peace. No one can help it or hinder, only each self shapes its way, only each soul makes the going sage-less or fairer than day!

CHILDREN OF FIRE, MADE OF IT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

"FOR we are not pans and barrows nor even porters of the fire and torch bearers," says Emerson, "but children of the fire, made of it."

If whoever created this world can be compared to the sun or to a ball of fire, we are sparks from Him.

Fire has two purposes in the world. It destroys and it also creates. While it burns down houses and cities and property of one kind and another, it is also under every boiler and creates heat for our houses, power for our railroads and electric lights. It is the source of most everything we make.

In fact man's distinction is that he is a fire-making animal. The legend that Prometheus brought fire from the gods and gave it to man illustrates that man's greatest possession is fire. No beast can make it. By virtue of it man frightens and rules the beasts. Whoever discovered fire discovered the greatest instrumentality to human progress.

The reason why we believe in a kindly God and not in a cruel fate, as the ancients did, nor in gods who make sport of their subjects, is that we ourselves are partial gods. We can control matter. We can control animals. For man was given dominion over every other living thing.

In man is the creative force. He does as he pleases and knows that he can do what he pleases. This spark in man is greater than anything else in the universe.

As you stand on the bank of the river in Winter, you see great icefloes coming down like continents. Slowly they slide by as this revolving globe flows through space. One speck in one of these icefloes is like Chicago, which contains two and a half million people. Any one of those people is of more account than the whole continent.

It is said that a man is really worth only $18; that is, the material in him can be sold for only $18. Yet man is greater than continents, because continents move impotently and cannot change their course one hair's breadth, while man has a spark of the divine fire, or the will.

The Chinese have a proverb: "A great army can be robbed of its leader, but one poor man cannot be robbed of his free will." Which is as much as to say that a man can alter his own destiny, while a continent cannot.

In all this universe there is nothing so wonderful as ourselves. We are children of the fire.

We make institutions and think they are greater than men, but other men come along and unmake them.

We crystallize the white passions of men into States and nations and races, but the red passions of men after a while dissolve them. Nothing is so great as the humanities.

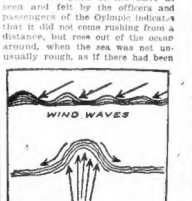
WAVES CAUSED BY EARTHQUAKES

By Garrett P. Serviss.

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

ON Friday, February 27, the day before the earthquake that surprised Eastern Canada and the Northeastern United States, the great ocean liner Olympic, on her way from Cherbourg to New York, in mid-Atlantic, was struck by an enormous lone wave, which suddenly lifted itself right under the ship and, swelling to a height estimated to be seventy-two feet above the water, fell by the officers and passengers of the Olympic indicates that it did not come rushing from a distance, but rose out of the ocean around, when the sea was not unusually rough, as if there had been an upheaval from the depths.



On some other occasions when similar waves have been encountered they are said to have been described as sweeping on from the direction of the horizon, as would be the case of course, if the upheaval at the sea bottom had occurred at a distance.

But in such cases it might appear doubtful whether the wave was one of wind origin, owing its extraordinary height to the meeting of two waves in the same phase, or, in other words, to interference. It should be easy, if the necessary observations were made, to distinguish between a wave of wind and another of earthquake origin.

For one thing, wind-born waves must last longer in series than waves originated by an earth shock because their cause is a continuing or repetitive one. What are at first but ripples become under the urging of a following wind growing waves. But the shock wave has a single impulse and reaches its greatest height at the start.

The earthquake that slightly shook the eastern side of North America the day after the Olympic's startling experience has already been referred to, because some have suggested that there may have been a connection between the two events.

Of course, it is not suggested that one and the same earthquake was concerned, but rather that there were two shocks, separated by something over twenty-four hours, and both originating under the floor of the Atlantic.

If the great wave was caused by a convulsion in the sea bottom it is unlikely that any direct connection existed between the centre of that convulsion and the focus of the earthquake of the following day.

The description of the wave as seen and felt by the officers and passengers of the Olympic indicates that it did not come rushing from a distance, but rose out of the ocean around, when the sea was not unusually rough, as if there had been an upheaval from the depths.

On some other occasions when similar waves have been encountered they are said to have been described as sweeping on from the direction of the horizon, as would be the case of course, if the upheaval at the sea bottom had occurred at a distance.

ONCE-OVERS

FATHERS AND MOTHERS MUST AGREE, IF THEY SUCCEED IN CONTROLLING THEIR CHILDREN

In thousands of homes today there are heated arguments breaking the family peace, because the young people stay out late at night.

Then there are many parents who pay no attention to the rives which their children lead.

In some families one or the other parent leans toward the idea that they are children but once. So let them have a good time.

As a general thing the parents who tells you this find it too much like work to keep track of Betty and Billie.

In other homes, the father blames the mother for the misdeeds of the children, and in some instances the mother says that the father should have better control.

Suspicion, anger and wrangling have never yet done any good.

Children are often censured while parents are angry with each other.

If fathers and mothers cannot agree as to what is best, how can they expect the children to attach much importance to their expressed wishes?
